Abstract:

A model is a representation of an idea, object, event, process or system. Models play a crucial role in science practice. One justification for their inclusion in science teaching is that they contribute to an 'authentic' science education, where teaching reflects the nature of science as much as possible.

By using these models students will be able to understand the different concepts of physics such as wave motion, effect of gravity, effect of sound, Newton's laws of motions etc.
